How to read this

Every frame carries a VIDEO-ABSOLUTE time -- seconds from the start of the video at the URL above, NOT seconds from the start of the bout -- printed as text directly above it. Those times run from 1:10:00 to 1:19:40.

Return every timestamp in that same video-absolute clock. If the bout starts partway into the video, say where it starts as a separate field -- do not rebase the event times to it. A bout-relative time reported as an absolute one places the whole fight in a different part of the broadcast, and the result looks plausible while being wrong.

THE CAPTION TEXT BESIDE EACH FRAME IS A GUIDE, NOT GROUND TRUTH. It is an auto-caption of live commentary: the commentator misnames athletes, talks about one bout while another is on screen, anticipates and speculates, and the text lags the picture. When the caption and the frame disagree, THE FRAME WINS. Use the caption to orient where to look and to break a tie on a label -- never to record an event you did not see in the frame itself.

For each event you can see, give:

<code>ts</code>	integer seconds, video-absolute
<code>label</code>	a technique name, taken verbatim from the label list
<code>actor</code>	which competitor did it, by name
<code>successful</code>	true if it landed, false if attempted and stopped
<code>type</code>	one of: control, submission, guard, takedown, pass, transition, sweep, escape
<code>points</code>	points the scoreboard awarded for THIS action; omit if you cannot read it

Points are the one thing the scoreboard is authoritative for, and reading footage is the first time they are visible at all -- a transcript only ever carried what a commentator said aloud. So: report `points` only when you can actually read the number change on the scoreboard between frames, attribute it to the action that caused it, and OMIT the field otherwise. Never write 0 to mean 'I could not tell' -- an action that scored nothing and an action nobody could score are different facts, and only an absent field holds the second. If the score jumps and you cannot see which action earned it, say so in `note` on the nearest event rather than guessing an attribution.

Also return, once per bout: the two competitors' names, the event/card name, the year, who won and how, `bout_start_seconds` -- the video-absolute second the bout begins -- and `final_score` as "a-b" if the scoreboard shows one. If this video contains more than one bout, return one such object per bout.

LABELS ARE A CLOSED VOCABULARY. Take each `label` verbatim from `node_library.json`, which lists every technique the library knows, most-used first. A label is normalised into a node key, and that key IS the node in every graph it reaches -- so a spelling the library does not have does not fail, it mints a second node, and one technique arrives split in two with no error anywhere. Where two listed names could both fit, take the one printed higher: that ordering is how often the corpus already uses it. If a frame genuinely shows something the list does not cover, use your own words and flag it as `new_label: true` rather than bending it into the nearest listed name.

NOT EVERY FRAME IS LIVE ACTION. A broadcast cuts to slow-motion replays, usually right after a finish or a scoring exchange, and a replay looks exactly like the thing it replays. Read one as new action and the same event is recorded twice, seconds apart, which downstream reads as a repeated technique rather than one shown twice. Tells: a graphics bug or logo appears, the clock stops or disappears, the camera angle changes, the action repeats something you already saw. Skip those frames rather than logging them, and say in the note which range you treated as replay.

AND NOT EVERY FRAME IS THIS BOUT. A broadcast cuts away -- to another mat, to a different match's scorecard, to a crowd shot or an ad -- and it may show two bouts in sequence with a gap between rounds. A reader found exactly that in this batch: a scorecard from an unrelated match sitting in the middle of the sampled frames. Events read off a cutaway land on the wrong athletes entirely, which is worse than missing them. Before logging any event, confirm the frame shows the two competitors you identified, and say in the note which ranges you excluded as not-this-bout.

THE SCOREBOARD'S NAME ORDER IS NOT A MAT POSITION. A lower-third graphic puts one name left and one right by broadcast convention; which competitor stands where on the mat is unrelated and changes shot to shot. Binding a name to a body through that order is the single highest-cost error available here, because `actor` is on every event -- get it backwards and the whole answer inverts at once, while still looking internally consistent. Bind identity to something carried ON the athlete instead: a name printed on the back of the rashguard, kit colour, sleeve length, an ankle band, hair. Then check that discriminator against a frame where the scoreboard and the bodies are visible together, and say in `identity_verified_by` which frame did it.

REPORT ONLY WHAT YOU ARE CONFIDENT OF -- but report uncertainty by getting COARSER, not by staying silent and not by guessing. If the frames show that something happened and you cannot tell exactly which technique it was, use the generic label the library already carries -- `Guard Pass` rather than a named pass, `Takedown` rather than a named entry, `Submission` rather than a named finish, and likewise `Sweep`, `Escape`, `Guard`. A generic label is the honest answer at the resolution these frames give you; a specific one you inferred is a claim about a technique nobody saw, and once it is in the athlete's graph nothing downstream can tell it from an observed one.

This matters most across the sampling gap. At one frame every 20s a technique can start and finish between two samples, leaving only its result visible -- a competitor who was on top now now underneath, a grip that is now a finish. Recording that result generically is correct. Naming the entry you did not see is not, however obvious it feels. The same rule covers `actor`: if you cannot tell which competitor did it, say so in `note` rather than picking one, because a right technique on the wrong athlete is two errors.

The result line at the top, when there is one, comes from the athlete's BJJ Heroes record. It is there so you can tell the two competitors apart and know the bout ended -- it is NOT evidence of anything you cannot see. Do not report a finish, a technique or a score because that line names it: an armbar listed as the method and an armbar visible in the frames are two different claims, and only the second belongs in your answer.

Only report what a frame actually shows. The scoreboard settles POINTS and nothing else: a technique you infer from a score change but never see is worth less than an omission, because a wrong label propagates into the athlete's graph and their rating and nothing downstream can tell it from an observed one. An omission is recoverable; an invented event is not.

1:10:00 (4200s)

couch going into the arm drag on the far side. Maintaining the closed guard still in armpit and under the chin.

1:10:20 (4220s)

Posture is broken. Cruz pushes out. Comes back to his feet. Couch digging under the leg. Very good on this Kg Guard, making the entry. Here we go. This is exactly where Jacob Couch wants to be. Outside he helic attempt. And that's it.

1:10:40 (4240s)

Jacob Couch 80C East Coast Trials Champion. He's going to the T-Mobile Arena in 2024. And look at this reaction from the crowd. The Rash guard's coming up. Jacob Couch is going to 80CC. What a tournament for Jacob Couch.

1:11:00 (4260s)

He submits El Monstro in the finals in Atlantic City. The hillbilly hammer gets it done. And the crowd. Your boy has done it.

1:11:20 (4280s)

Coming out of Pedigo submission, Jacob Couch. He's He's soaking it up. And look at him run down the ground. I got to get some. I got to get some, too. Oh, man. You just feel so good for that kid. Oh my goodness. All the hard work that he has put in finally pays off. And they're dropping the lights for the boy.

1:11:40 (4300s)

[Applause] Oh, he is. He is so excited, man. A valiant effort this weekend for El Monstro. But Jacob Couch just too much.

1:12:00 (4320s)

Here's a replay of Jacob Couch ripping his shirt off. That is an excited man right there. And again, just keep running it. Just replay. Just make that a gift. That's a gift. Oh, ladies and gentlemen, I don't know how we're going to take a break after that one, but we're going to take it to another break. We'll be back. All right, ladies and gentlemen, we have taken several deep breaths and a drink of water after that Jacob Couch final. And we are back for the under 77 kilogram division final. Seth Daniels about to bring the athletes in. What an event.

1:12:40 (4360s)

Brandon McCathan. Man, what a moment. Jacob Couch going to Vegas, baby. Time for the 77. [Applause] Oh, and here comes in my opinion, and I think probably the opinion of anybody that's been watching this weekend, this is the technical master of the weekend.

1:13:00 (4380s)

Nikki Ryan been able to silence some of the doubts about his cardio, his athletic prowess. He's like, I don't care if I I don't even need those things. He's been so much better than everybody that he's been on the mat with. Yeah. By and large, I mean, seems several steps ahead of all the competition thus far. And Elijah Dorsy might have something to say about that. He has looked incredible. But let me The thing about Elijah Dorsy is he's a winner. He knows how to score. He knows how to score. He knows how to make it happen at the end. And he's aggressive, man. The match he had with Taza, he just blew him straight out of the water. Absolutely. And I mean, this guy's walking out. Is this a Terminator theme? This is the Terminator theme, right? Yeah. Good for him. This I am on my feet for this one.

1:13:20 (4400s)

1:13:40 (4420s)

1:14:00 (4440s)

Brandon McCafford, this is a great M. We're going to see the aggression of Elijah Dorsey versus the technical precision of the B team's Nikki Ryan.

1:14:20 (4460s)

And check out that rash guard from Mickey Ryan. Taunt less. I don't think I I rarely hear him say anything. So, Elijah. This is a phenomenal matchup and a real style clash as well.

1:14:40 (4480s)

Here we go. Dorsey well-rounded in every position. Very good. Same can be said for Nikki, though. Nikki a very strong wrestler despite having no real wrestling pedigree.

1:15:00 (4500s)

He's shown that he's very confident and competent in every position. Just that little reaction that he had against the foot sweep there where he just kind of let the foot go with it and kept his balance.

1:15:20 (4520s)

Dorsey reaches for the single. Tries to shut by. And this is about the longest match Nikki Ryan's had all weekend already. It really has been incredible watching him work so quickly and so fluidly.

1:15:40 (4540s)

Earlier today, uh Cody Steel, a member of this under 77 kilogram division, was looking in a in a similar way. Hard to beat. Oh, look at that. But Nikki Ryan tore through him as well. Yeah. Blew him.

1:16:00 (4560s)

Oh, nice entry by Dorsey. And Nikki accepts, goes down, and he's going to force Dorsey to come in here and pass the guard, but Dorsey just a great tactician. And as you guys noticed there, once again, important to reiterate that in the finals of ACC, you were not allowed to pull guard, right?

1:16:20 (4580s)

And so, a way to get around that is by conceding a takedown. And that's what you saw Nikki Ryan do right there. Very relaxed. Dorsey wrapping around the right left leg of Nikki Ryan. Tries to step around the guard. Good recovery so far by Nikki.

1:16:40 (4600s)

Gets his knee back to the inside. Nikki now working the shoulder crunch on the far side. Nice work. Switch of the hips by Dorsey. Forces Nikki to abandon that attack.

1:17:00 (4620s)

Steps around the outside. Look, Nikki's going to have to be really careful. Dorsey has shown him a quick hip switch a couple of times and nearly busted through. [Applause]

1:17:20 (4640s)

Nikki working into the butterfly hook. Wants to make an entry on the legs here. Oh, look at this. Using that left foot as a frame. Able to connect his hands together. Yeah, and we've seen him work effectively from the double outside Ashi position a couple of times this weekend.

1:17:40 (4660s)

He's got both butterfly hooks on the inside. All Nikki needs is just a fraction of an offbalance to create an entry and get his offense started.

1:18:00 (4680s)

Dorsey though, incredible balance, very aware of all the attacks and threatening to pass himself. Grip on the ankle. Referee calling for action on top.

1:18:20 (4700s)

Dorsey nearly slips around to the Ryan inverts, saves it. Cross frame. Check out the positioning of the legs here from Nikki. Yeah, the flexibility to have Nikki Ryan here keeping him protected. Back to that shoulder crunch position. Dorsey clears the elbow.

1:18:40 (4720s)

We're about to hit the points. You called it, Jake. Every time the points hit, the crowd's going to do it. We only got one more final to go. It's probably they're probably going to empty the gas tank on the last one.

1:19:00 (4740s)

You know, this is Elijah Dorsey's kind of match, man. He He just finds a way to score. This is the kind of pace that really favors him. It's a war of attrition. And now he starts to pour on the heat. Changing sides, weaving through, keeping Nikki's hips pressured forward, elevating.

1:19:20 (4760s)

There's the hip switch. Nikki saves it and now he sets in the shoulder crunch grip on the far side, but Dorsey very aware, just in great position at all times. Snap down by Nikki. Beautiful hips from Dorsey.

1:19:40 (4780s)

Nikki playing with this reverse deaha on his bottom leg. And Nikki's been mostly very patient, right? not not overtly exerting himself for these opportunities. More waiting, feeling out. That's his game.
